

VIDEO TRANSCRIPT

Bridging the Gap: Conversations on Genetics & Society

Link to video.

[Ting]: The goal of this organization is to decrease the gap of communication between geneticists and the public whom we serve.

[Marnie]: The science is just moving so fast that the ethical issues that people have really debated for centuries, science is making a reality. The time is running out to have those conversations.

[Ting]: Lack of knowledge makes people vulnerable.

Over the years, PGED has discovered that the solution to reaching people is actually very simple: it's people-to-people conversation.

[Marnie]: We are simply there with information both about the potential benefits that genetic technologies are bringing into our world, but also the ethical, legal, social questions. Knowing your rights. If genetic technologies come knocking on their door, they can be better prepared.

